THE INFLUENCE OF THE EUROPEAN FOUND S ON THE TOURIST DEVELOPMENT IN THE COASTAL RESORT. THE EXAMPLE OF THE ŁEBA RESORT

In this article was made an analysis of the influence of the European Founds for the tourist development in the coastal resort. As an example was used Leba town-one of the most visited and popular polish coastal resort in the middle part of Pomeranian region. In this work was made an characteristic of the using subsidies and its role for the development of infrastructure of Leba taking into consideration investments directly and indirectly connected with the tourism.

Today tourism is one the most important determinants of the socio-economical development of the country. Tourism has ability of creation new jobs, improvement of quality of live for local communities and increasing of regions competitiveness. Tourism plays especially important role for localities without the others alternatives of development. The coastal areas belong to these regions where the tourism plays very important role. Tourism contributes to economic development, to creating of the local labor market being very important source of income for localities and its inhabitants. Tourism incomes often becomes the main determinant for the infrastructure investments which contributes for improvement of quality of inhabitants life and at the same time for improvement of tourist living conditions. In this way tourist’s investments create convenient base for tourism development and for new different investments connected with the demand of accommodation, gastronomic and others tourist surveys.

Moreover the dynamic tourism development and the growth of tourist’s surveys demand improve the economic conditions not only for tourist’s localities but indirectly for budget of all country. Simultaneously local tourism give possibility for redistribution of incomes between the poor and rich regions. According to the United Nations Word Tourism Organization sector of services and especially services of tourism organization belongs to the most quickly developing sectors of economy in the world. The dynamic growth of tourism services results in growth of capital expenditures for development of tourism services and accompanying infrastructure.

In the last years possibilities of realization of tourism infrastructure and others investments appeared in the middle east European countries with its accession to the European Union on the basis of the financial instruments of European Union policy [1,2,5,6]. Before the accession to the European Union financial founds in the form of a refundable financial subsidies were transferred for future members from resources of pre-accession founds such as PHARE and SAPARD. With accession to the European Union we have much more possibilities of applying for founds for realization of different investments.

In the present work was taken an issue of the influence of the European founds on the development of investments especially on tourist investments and on accompanying infrastructure. The analysis of the present issue was made on the example of the polish Baltic coastal resort. As an example was used the town Łeba, one of the most popular, and most visited tourist coastal resort in the middle part of the Pobrzeże Koszaliński region.

Łeba is situated in the region of Pobrzeże Koszalińskie and is inhabited by about 4000 inhabitants. Its socio-economical development mainly bases on increments from the tourism services. Due to its tourist attractions and the attractions of its neighborhoods Łeba is a tourist’s destination for touring, holiday and spa tourism and for different forms of qualified tourism based on its location. Moreover Łeba have conditions and resources for spa tourism. In spite of Łeba formally isn’t the health resort the spa tourism in Łeba has been developing for a lot of years.

The number of accommodation objects and beds confirms the role what plays the tourist services in the socio-economical development of Łeba resort. Today in Łeba there are about 19 000 accommodation places and the number of beds in Łeba belongs to the most developed tourist destinations in the polish Baltic coast. There are a lot of signs of dynamic development of different infrastructure investments. These investments relate to the development of technical infrastructure of resort. Between the most important investments realized in the last years in Łeba the investments for improving of transport ability and for improving the tourist stays conditions and inhabitants living conditions plays the most important role.

The analysis of the expenses of investments in individual polish Baltic coastal communes of Pomerania Region confirms the leading position of Łeba between the coastal communes with the highest level of European founds absorption

The main programs of European subsidies used for additional subsidies to realize of the tourist’s investments projects and improving the tourist attractiveness were as Program of Tourism Common Issue, Program of Infrastructure and Environment, Program of EWT INTERREGIVC – heritage and landscape., Regional Programs of Operating for Pomerania Region, priorities 1,6,8.

In the years 2007-2013 the coastal communes of the Pomerania region secured financing from the European founds in the total sum 5 164 356 638 zloty. The subsidies were disposed between beneficiaries from the 132 communes of Pomerania region.. The sum of the subsides was very differentiated both the subjects of realized priorities and spatial disproportions of the disbursement of European funds.

The highest sum of the subsidies in the Pomerania region obtained the city commune Gdańsk. Generally from the total sum of the subsidies for Pomerania region communes about 60% was accumulated by beneficiaries from the city commune Gdańsk, Moreover 90% of all subsidies were transferred to communes of Gdańsk and neighboring communes.

Moreover the city communes of Gdańsk, Sopot and Gdynia and its neighboring were embraced of the European founds subsidies. The quotes of subsidies were strongly differentiated.

It seems the quote of subsidies is not the most objective indicator of the European founds absorption. It is results from the significant differentiation of spatial dimension of the individual communes and it is effect of its differentiated demographic potential. For the more precise analysis of the absorption of the European founds in individual communes in the present work was made an analysis of the distribution the subsidies from European founds per capita.

However Łeba doesn’t belong to the communes with the highest indicators of the founds from the European subsidies but is one of the communes with highest indicators of absorption of European founds per capita. Moreover Łeba is between the Pomeranian coastal communes of Pomerania region with the highest percentage share of tourist investments subsidies in the total quote of the European subsidies. Between the Pomerania coastal communes (fig.3).

communes Sztutowo (22,2%), Sopot (20,5%), in the city commune Ustka (20,8%) and in the communes Łeba (18,5%), Krokowa (17,1) and Choczewo (16,1%). The indicators of using of the European founds, especially the subsidies dedicated on the development of the tourist investments and on improvement of the tourist attractiveness of Łeba shows Łeba is in the leader of the using of the European subsidies between all coastal communes of the Pomerania region. The first investment chronologically financed from the European founds in Łeba was the construction of the yachting port. This investment was realized and made accessible in June of 1998 year.
